ABOUT ME

I am a designer, developer and financial business analyst. I have worked in the mortgage industry for the last 14 years and am very fortunate to have a job I love. I am a problem solver who thrives on a good challenge. I got my start building custom loan origination software that has funded billions over it's 10 year run. My passion is creating solutions that leverage technology to solve business needs.

I am comfortable wrangling HTML and CSS code to make beautiful websites that work on any platform, managing complex projects with tight deadlines or hashing out the intricate details of RegB, TRID or HMDA to insure mortgage operations stay compliant with the ever changing laws and regulations. I have worked many positions in the mortgage industry along with developing software and this has given me the skills needed to craft solutions that make people's lives easier and bring financial success to the companies I have worked for.
